Picture This! Eyewash Stations and Hide and Seek Do Not Mix

When your eyes are burning with a splashed chemical and you desperately need an emergency eyewash station, the setup shown in this photograph would be the last thing you'd ever want to encounter. Someone has moved a hazmat shed directly in front of an eyewash station, blocking access to it. No one wants to play hide and seek in an emergency. (Naval Safety Center)