How to Select Chemical Substitutes

Deciding how to get started on chemical substitution and looking for information on chemical alternatives is a challenge for any business. Selecting an alternative is a change and as a result a Management of Change process approach should be used to find the best and most effective chemical substitute. Download this pdf for guidance on a quick process to choose a chemical substitute if you have little experience with chemical risk assessment and management.