Picture This! Heavy Metal Versus Flesh and Bone

This photograph illustrates a hazard seen time and time again in the workplace: workers standing under a suspended load. Yes, that’s danger tape in front of the workers, warning people to stay away from the area. Ironically, a crane crew had delivered a safety talk warning against standing under suspended loads only a few hours before this photograph was taken. (Naval Safety Center)