Food Wholesaler Fined $55,000 for Violations

Food Wholesaler Fined $55,000 for violations resulting in serious foot injuries to a warehouse worker. The worker, who had just started the job that morning, was learning how to use a power jack when he got his foot pinned between the machine and a steel support beam. The company was fined for not ensuring that the worker practiced on the machine in an open area rather than in an aisle.

[Lumsden Bros. Ltd., MOL Press Release]