7 CONFINED SPACE ENTRY DO'S & DON'TS

DON'T

enter a confined space unless you've been trained.

DON'T

enter a permit-required confined space without an entry permit.

DON'T

rush into a confined space to rescue a co-worker unless you're trained and authorized to carry out rescue operations—remember that many confined space fatalities are suffered by rescue workers.

DO

read and understand the entry procedure and know all hazards/potential hazards before entry.

make sure there's at least one attendant outside the space and a means for constant communication is in place.

DO

make sure your communication and emergency rescue equipment are on hand and working properly before entry.

DO

have the right respiratory protective equipment and other PPE on prior to entry.
