U.S. Department of Labor
Occupational Safety and Health Administration

Form approved OSHA no. 3334-0176

All establishments covered by Part 1904 must complete this Summary page, even if no work-related injuries or illnesses occurred during the year. Remember to review the Log to verify that the entries are complete and accurate before completing this summary.

Using the Log, count the individual entries you made for each category. Then write the totals below, making sure you've added the entries from every page of the Log. If you had no cases, write "0".

Employees, former employees, and their representatives have the right to review the OSHA Form 300 in its entirety. They also have limited access to the OSHA Form 301 or its equivalent. See 29 CFR Part 1904.35, in OSHA's recordkeeping rule, for further details on the access provisions for these forms.

Form 300A is known as the “Summary of Work Related Injuries and Illnesses.”

Do I need to file this form?

You are not required to complete the OSHA injury and illness forms if you are:

- An employers with 10 or fewer employees throughout 2022, or
- Are in a partially exempt industry, as listed by OSHA, and have not been requested by OSHA to keep this record.

What is involved with filling out the form?

After December 2022, companies that are required to complete the forms will need to:

- Calculate the average number of employees during the year and
- Calculate the number of hours worked by all employees, hourly and salary.

This information will be used to complete the paper 300A form that is to be displayed by February 1, 2023, and the electronic report that is to be completed and submitted online. Read our bulleting attached for more information.

Action Steps

On February 1, employers subject to OSHA recordkeeping requirements must ensure that copies of their completed 2022 Forms 300A are posted in each of their establishments. The form must be displayed in a conspicuous place or places where notices to employees are customarily posted. The Form 300A postings must remain in place until April 30, 2023.
