Picture This! Boom Could Turn to Bust

Here’s an eye-catching act of risk taking—standing on the end of a boom suspended over moving traffic and a fire hydrant as these workers attend to a lamp standard, all without fall protection. Imagine plunging face-first into that hydrant or into the path of a moving vehicle. In terms of brightness, the streetlight wins out over these workers. (Naval Safety Center)