Picture This! Why Safety Matters

People often care more about their loved ones’ health and wellbeing than they do about their own. That may lead them to take chances with their health and take unnecessary risks both on and off the job. If that sounds like you, imagine the void you would create for your immediate and extended family if you didn’t return home safely from your work shift today. (Thinkstock.com)