School Bus Driver Safety – Driver Conduct Picture This

This image clearly relates to unsafe school bus driver conduct. The driver is actively using a cellphone while operating the vehicle, which violates basic safety protocols and shows a serious lapse in professional behaviour. Driver conduct is a critical component of school transportation safety, and distractions like phone use can put all passengers at risk, especially in unpredictable environments like school zones or busy intersections.

Proper conduct for school bus drivers includes staying alert, maintaining both hands on the wheel, and focusing fully on the road. Using a mobile phone while driving not only endangers students but also breaches legal and organizational policies in most school districts. Professional drivers must model responsible behaviour and prioritize the safety of children above all else.
